In order to address the challenges faced by the Indian information technology industry and growth of the domestic information technology market, which, inter alia, include developing new knowledge in information technology, providing manpower of global standards and ensuring autonomy in governance, the Government has decided to set-up twenty Indian Institutes of Information Technology in public-private partnership mode.

As the students of five existing Indian Institutes of Information Technology would be completing their graduation in July and August, 2017, there is an urgent need to confer statutory status upon such Institutes.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education (Amendment) Act, 2017.

(2) It shall be deemed to have come into force on the 1st day of April, 2015.

Amendment of section 23.

2. In the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, in section 23, in sub-section (2), after the proviso, the following proviso shall be inserted, namely:—

35 of 2009.

“Provided further that every teacher appointed or in position as on the 31st March, 2015, who does not possess minimum qualifications as laid down under sub-section (1), shall acquire such minimum qualifications within a period of four years from the date of commencement of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education (Amendment) Act, 2017.”.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The crucial role of universal elementary education for strengthening the social fabric of democracy through provision of equal opportunities to all has been accepted since inception of our Republic. The Directive Principles of State Policy enumerated in our Constitution lays down that the State shall provide free and compulsory education to all children up to the age of fourteen years.

2. Pursuant to insertion of article 21A in the Constitution by the Constitution (Eighty-sixth Amendment) Act, 2002, the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 was enacted to provide for free and compulsory education to all children of the age of six to fourteen years. The said Act came into force on the 1st April, 2010.

3. Proviso to sub-section (2) of section 23 of the said Act has stipulated a period of five years from the date of commencement of the said Act, till the 31st March, 2015, as the deadline for a teacher who does not possess minimum qualifications as laid down in sub-section (1) of the said section, to acquire such minimum qualifications.

4. In view of the above provisions, after completion of the said period, the State Governments have not been able to continue the training process for in-service untrained teachers. Hence, the State Governments have requested for extension of the period for training untrained teachers so as to enable them to initiate and complete the said training process.

5. Therefore, it is proposed to bring the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education (Amendment) Bill, 2017 to insert a new proviso to sub-section (2) of section 23 of the said Act, so as to provide that every teacher appointed or in position as on 31st March, 2015, who does not possess minimum qualifications as laid down under sub-section (1) of the said section, shall acquire such minimum qualifications within a period of four years on and from the date of commencement of the proposed legislation.

6. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objective.
